REMARKS OF SENATOR WARNER

Mr. President, we all know that kite flying is a family friendly, environmentally safe, healthy, educational, outdoor oriented activity. What we may not know is that April is National Kite Month and there are special reasons to recognize this event in North Dakota.

North Dakota hosts two of the largest kite festivals in the Upper Midwest: Skydance Sakakawea in Garrison (Memorial Day weekend) and Jamestown Kitefest (second weekend of June). Both of these events are free and open to the public. They each attract nearly a thousand participants, including kite enthusiasts from across the nation and the Canadian provinces, thereby contributing to North Dakota tourism.

North Dakota is home to four nationally recognized kitemakers who have received numerous awards for their craft. Jamestown has one of the few open spaces in the country specifically set aside for kite flying. Ellendale contributed to scientific history as home to the last operating kite weather station in the United States, closing in 1933.

Recreational enthusiasts are discovering that North Dakota's winds and snow make it ideal for snowkiting (kite skiing and kite snowboarding). Indeed, the efforts of two North Dakota snowkiters received national attention this winter as they attempted to kiteski across the width of the state.

North Dakota's wind and open skies make it especially suitable for kiteflying. In fact, the motto of North Dakota's kite club is "North Dakota: No Mountains, No Trees...Just One Big Kite Flying Field".

Mr. President, in recognition of National Kite Month and North Dakota's place in the kiting community, I urge everyone to Go FLY a Kite!
